FORGOTTEN ORIGINS OF THE CENTRAL COAST -REVISITED

by STEVEN STRONG- Author and Researcher

2PM, SATURDAY, 18TH February, 2012
KARIONG NEIGHBOURHOOD CENTRE
10 Langford Drive, Kariong

"Within this region there is evidence through Aboriginal engravings, formations and paintings of boats meant to navigate open seas, astronomical constructions, an array of ancient Egyptian symbols and a multitude of art styles and techniques. So numerous and out-of-region are the styles found we have previously referred to this region being the Stone-age equivalent of Alexandria.

Such is the quantity, quality and diversity of extremely important sacred sites, there is no other option but to protect and treasure the sites and surrounding land.

The entire area, in particular the Kariong/Bambara region, is of international significance. More importantly, what is engraved into rock platforms, constructed and painted in cave-walls goes a long way towards justifying the belief held by Aboriginal Elders and custodians of lore, that they are not related to ancient Africans and always came from Australia, that they were the first intercontinental mariners, the first Homo sapiens and that "all other peoples of the world come from us."

This is not a new interpretation of history but the most ancient and factual account that has ever existed. Find out some of the reasons why this land is so special and so important in fleshing out a much bigger picture of the history of not only Australia but the world."
